Preface.

In the preparation of the edition for 1900 the strenuous efforts exerted on behalf of the two preceding issues have been renewed, and it is confidently hoped that the Directory will be found more complete than before and not less accurate in all its details.

By the addition of over two hundred pages room has been found for Seniority Lists of all Commissioned Officers of the Royal Navy and of all Regiments, Corps and Departments of the Army; and a Colonial Army List has been appended to the volume, to enable enquirers to trace the Colonial Contingents now serving their Queen and her Empire in South Africa.

In the Alphabetical List many names have been added, to include Officers gazetted since the last issue, as well as many who have left the Service and have been for many years omitted from the Official Lists. In the case of those added and of those originally included, no effort has been spared to make the entries complete, and no fewer than five thousand addresses of Retired Officers have been inserted during the past year.

A further new feature will be found in a Casualty List of the South African Campaign and an Obituary for the year 1899, both of which follow immediately after the "Alphabetical List of Officers."

The warmest thanks are due to those in the List who forwarded emendations and suggestions; and to those of Her Majesty's Forces now engaged in the War a heartfelt wish is sent for a speedy and permanent success and a safe home-coming.
